

HST - HISTORY

HST101 Western Civilization: Ancient and Classical Europe 🌐

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W; each with a grade of "C" or better; or placement above stated course levels.

HST101 is an introductory survey of European history from its earliest civilizations to circa 1000 C.E. in the early medieval era. Topics to be covered include the Paleolithic and early Neolithic eras, and the influence of earlier civilizations such as Mesopotamia, India, Persia and Egypt upon early Europe; the rise of Minoan and Greek civilization; the influence of the Etruscans upon early Rome, the Roman Republic and Empire; the rise of Christianity and the role of the church in Europe; the Barbarian invasions and the emergence of feudalism; the impact of the Eastern Roman or Byzantine empire; the rise of the Frankish kingdoms and Charlemagne; the rise of the Arab Caliphate and Europe's interactions with the Muslim world. This course fulfills: Cultural Literacy; Human Relations; Social Science

HST102 Western Civilization: Medieval and Early Modern Europe 🌐

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W; each with a grade of "C" or better; or placement above stated course levels.

This is an introductory survey course on European History from approximately 1000 to 1750 C.E. Topics include the emergence of early medieval European culture, development of the institutions of Christianity, feudalism and manorialism, and the continuation of Roman institutions in the Eastern Byzantine Empire; the Crusades, the revival of the economy and rediscovery of Classical Roman and Greek culture and learning after 1000 C.E.; the development of European culture during the High Middle Ages and subsequent Renaissance; the emergence of new monarchies and nation states; European global exploration and empire building; the scientific revolution and the beginnings of the Enlightenment. This course fulfills: Cultural Literacy; Human Relations; Social Science

HST103 Western Civilization: Modern Europe 🌐

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W; each with a grade of "C" or better; or placement above stated course levels.

This is an introductory survey of European history from the French Revolution in the 1780s to the present. Topics to be covered include the collapse of France's monarchy and the upheavals of the French Revolution, Napoleon and his empire, the industrial revolution, Britain's war of rebellion in America, the Revolutions of 1848, the unification of Italy and Germany, European imperialism, World Wars I and II, the Russian Revolution, the Cold War and the rise and fall of Communism, the rise of the European Union and Europe in the 21st century. This course fulfills: Cultural Literacy; Human Relations; Social Science

HST110 Ancient World History 🌐

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W; each with a grade of "C" or better; or placement above stated course levels. HST110 surveys the history of the ancient world from prehistory to approximately 600-700 C.E. Topics include the origins of human civilizations, the development of early Asian, African, American, Mediterranean, Middle Eastern and European civilizations, the rise of empires and the emergence of universal religions. There is an emphasis on world geography. This course fulfills: Cultural Literacy; Human Relations; Social Science

HST111 Medieval World History 🌐

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W; each with a grade of "C" or better; or placement above stated course levels. HST111 surveys the history of the world from the early medieval period (approximately 600 C.E.) to approximately 1750 C.E. Topics include medieval Asian, Middle Eastern, African, American and European civilizations. Topics also include the development and spread of universal religions, the regional and global impact of empires, and increasing global connectedness throughout the period. There is an emphasis on world geography. This course fulfills: Cultural Literacy; Human Relations; Social Science

HST112 Modern World History 🌐

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W; each with a grade of "C" or better; or placement above stated course levels. HST112 surveys the history of the world from approximately 1750 C.E. to the present. Topics include the development of modern nations and ideologies, world wars, revolutions, social movements, technological and cultural innovation and current global issues. There is an emphasis on world geography. This course fulfills: Cultural Literacy; Human Relations; Social Science

HST195 History of the Vietnam War 🌐

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W; each with a grade of "C" or higher; or placement above stated course levels. This is an introductory survey of the U.S. - Vietnam War, which raged from the end of World War II to 1975. Topics include early Vietnamese history, Vietnam and French imperialism, Vietnam in World War II, the French - Vietnamese War, growing U.S. involvement in the 1950s, the creation of North and South Vietnam, the introduction of U.S. combat troops in the 1960s, the victory of Communist forces in 1975, the impact of the war upon domestic U.S. politics and the role of the Cold War. This course fulfills: Cultural Literacy; Human Relations; Social Science

HST201Z United States History I 🌐

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W, each with a grade of "C" or higher; or placement above stated course levels. Survey of North America and United States history to the early 1800s: Native America, European colonization, colonial development, origins of slavery, American Revolution, early Republic, and Market Revolution.

HST202Z United States History II

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W, each with a grade of "C" or higher; or placement above stated course levels. Survey of United States history from the early 1800s to the early 1900s: Jacksonian era, expansion, Industrial Revolution, slavery, Civil War, Reconstruction, Gilded Age, Populism, Imperialism, the Progressive Era, and the First World War.

HST203Z United States History III

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W, each with a grade of "C" or higher; or placement above stated course levels. Survey of United States history from the 1920s: Depression and New Deal, the Second World War and Cold War, Civil Rights movements, Neoliberalism, Globalization, and the United States and the world.

HST204 Women in U.S. History

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W; each with a grade of "C" or better; or placement above stated course levels. This course surveys the contributions and experiences of women in United States history from the colonial period to the present. It includes examination of the roles of women in diverse ethnic, racial and religious groups within American society. It includes topics such as participation of women in the major events of American history, women's role in major social movements, and the social, legal and political status of women throughout American history. This course fulfills: Cultural Literacy; Human Relations; Social Science

HST225 Women in World History

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W; each with a grade of "C" or better; or placement above stated course levels. This course surveys the contributions and experiences of women of cultures and societies from Africa, the Americas, Asia, Europe and the Middle East, and examines women's roles in the major global religious traditions, from prehistory to the present. Topics include women's impact on major events in world history and women's participation in social and political movements. This course fulfills: Cultural Literacy; Human Relations; Social Science

HST237 America in the 1960s

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W; each with a grade of "C" or higher; or placement above stated course levels. This course explores the convulsive cultural and social forces that defined the United States during the 1960s. Topics include the Civil Rights Movement, rock 'n' roll, image and reality in the Kennedy Administration, the space race and moon landings, the assassinations of JFK, Martin Luther King and Robert Kennedy, the Vietnam War, the antiwar movement, the presidencies of Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon, the emergence of a counterculture, the Women's Movement, and the music, literature and films of the era. The course also looks at how the 1960s continue to affect the United States, as well as the rest of the world. This course fulfills: Human Relations; Social Science

HST240 History of Oregon

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W, each with a grade of "C" or higher; or placement above stated course levels. This course surveys the history of Oregon from pre-history to the modern era. Topics include the Native American experience, explorers, immigrants, the frontier experience, patterns of settlement, and Oregon's role in American history into the 21st century. The course explores economic, political, social, and cultural factors in terms of race, ethnicity, gender, class, and religion. This course fulfills: Social Science

HST264 African-American History: 1500 - 1870s

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W; each with a grade of "C" or better; or placement above stated course levels. This course surveys African-American history from 1500 to the 1870s. Central themes are the integral role African-Americans have played throughout American history and the impact of African-American history upon the present-day United States. Major topics will include West African civilizations and empires, the Atlantic Slave Trade, European and American justifications for slavery, slavery in Colonial America, African-Americans in the American Revolution, Anti-slavery freedom fighters and slave rebellions, Abolitionism and anti-slavery organizations, The Civil War, and Reconstruction. This course fulfills: Cultural Literacy; Human Relations; Social Science

HST265 African-American History: 1870 - Present

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W; each with a grade of "C" or better; or placement above stated course levels. This course surveys African-American history from the 1870s to the present. Central themes are the integral role African-Americans have played throughout U.S. history and the impact of African-American history upon the present-day United States. Major topics will include Reconstruction, the Jim Crow Era, The Niagara Movement, the Harlem Renaissance and the 'New Negro', African-Americans in America's wars, the Civil Rights Movement of the 1950s and 1960s, and recent events such as the Presidency of Barack Obama and the Black Lives Matter movement. This course fulfills: Cultural Literacy; Human Relations; Social Science

HST270 History of Mexico

Credits 4

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W, each with a grade of "C" or better; and MTH020; or placement above stated course levels. This course surveys the history of Mexico from the pre-Columbian period to the present. Topics include the early peoples of Mexico, indigenous civilizations such as the Maya and the Aztec, the Spanish conquest, colonial Mexico, Mexican independence movements, the U.S. - Mexican War, the Mexican Revolution and modern Mexico. This course fulfills: Cultural Literacy; Human Relations; Social Science

HST298 History Research

Credit 1

Registration Requirement: RD090 and WR090, or IECC201R and IECC201W; each with a grade of "C" or better; or placement above stated course levels. Instructor and dean's signature is required. HST298 is a one-credit class designed to prepare history majors and others for upper division research and report/paper writing. This course may be repeated once. This course focuses on the skills needed to successfully write a college-level history research paper. It provides a guided experience in library research, planning, and research writing, including correct use of footnotes and bibliography style. Students meet periodically with the instructor, but otherwise work independently to research and write their final 10-page (minimum) paper.

Course fees are subject to change. Additional section fees (web, hybrid, etc.) may apply.

- ★ Course offered online
- 🌐 Cultural Literacy course